

Canadian Nutrition Society
Soci t  canadienne de nutrition

The Canadian Nutrition Society (CNS) Annual Conference is a forum for the presentation of scientific research spanning basic, regulatory/policy, clinical and community nutrition research. It offers an exceptional learning environment and brings together nutrition experts, opinion leaders, industry representatives, government officials, and future leaders. The conference also provides great opportunities to view new research through our Poster and Oral presentations, our exhibition, and through recognition of exceptional award winners.
